David Cassidy in Luke's Beautiful Music

DAVID CASSIDY HAD JUST FINISHED FILMING HIS TV SHOW, AND HE WAS TIRED. HE KNEW A CHANGE OF SCENERY RELAXED HIM THE MOST, SO HE WENT TO THE LAKE, GOT INTO A CANOE AND JUST PEACEFULLY PADDLED ON THE WATER.

COMPUTER COUNTRY

The year is 1998 and now computers run the country. Everything is done by those electronic creatures. We take a peep at a scene in Depart. E, Bureau K, Division 16 of the Eastern Section of the Country. A middle aged man has come in to make a complaint. Which is something rather rare.

"My name is Howard Randolph Pearson. The computer card says that I am Harry Ralph Kaarson. Could you kindly make a change so the computer has my correct name?"

"What's the matter with you? Are you crazy? You know that our computers can't make a mistake. If the card says that your name is Harry Ralph Kaarson then that is your name. And you must use that name."

"Going to produce a lot of trouble. I have three kids. How can they tell their friends that their father has a different name? And what about my wife? When we go to a party and she introduces me, that's going to cause a big mix-up. So please do me a favor. I have certificate No. 457 which entitles me to a favor. I want to use my right name. The one on my birth certificate."

"Sorry, can't be done. We have thousands of miles of tape that run our computers. Assuming the impossible, that a mistake might have been made, it would take at least 50 years to correct it. By that time you realize we would have spent a fortune on such a trivial matter. Anything else you want to say?"

"Yes, about the sum of money mentioned on this card. It says that I owe the Federal Government the sum of $29,062.32 for unpaid income taxes for the past six years. And you know the penalty if you don't come across with that money within five weeks."

"It is impossible for me to owe even one cent for income taxes. I haven't worked at all for the past seven years. I have been receiving Federal, State, County, and City assistance. Which is all tax free. So how can I owe you any tax money?"

"You are getting to be a bit obnoxious. May I remind you of what happened to the young woman who claimed last month that our computers were all wrong? Lucky for you I happn to be a most pleasant person. At least today. I have a lot of reports that have to be made out So be a good fellow. Go home. Keep the name given to you by the computer. And come back with the money you owe us."

"If I go home then I will have a fight with my wife. She told me to come here and straighten out matters with the computers. You apparently do not know my wife Martha. Nothing in the world can be as dreadful as when she begins to yell at me. So I really don't care two cents how you threaten me. I say that I am right. And those things that aren't human are all wrong. I want action now. And I intend to get it."

"So you want action, eh? Believe me you are going to get more than you bargained for. I am going to involve the National Security Act. The moment you doubt our computers, then you doubt the entire basis upon which the establishment rests on. And this, I tell you, is Treason! Remember, you asked for it. See, this red button? Well, now I push it three times. There they come. The two computer guards to arrest you."

"You are working yourself up into a heart attack. If you were in my shoes you would do the same thing I have just done."

"What size shoes do you wear?"

"I wear size 7½ C width."

"Well, I wear size 11 D width. So I couldn't be in your shoes. I should have guessed it at first. A wise guy, a trouble maker, and if you weren't bald and had hair, I bet you would wear it long."

"Wait till my wife hears of all of this. She is president of the Woman's Unliberation Movement."

"I never heard of that one. Maybe I should ask computer 65 what that is all about. You are trying to confuse me. Computers, take him away."

"O.K., so take me away. But I am entitled to a last request. Just ask the computer if I am alive or dead."

"Well, I figure a condemned man is entitled to a last favor. So here goes. Now let me see what the answer is to your last request. It says that you are dead. That's funny."

"Remember, if I am dead, then you can't do anything to me. You have to let me go. I want you to see that if you doubt the computer, then you are headed for trouble. So enjoy the rest of the day."
